

Are you a first- or second-generation immigrant living in the United States?

Are you a survivor of an abusive relationship?

Are you interested in telling your story?

If you answered yes to the questions above, you are invited to participate in a study on Immigrants' Perceptions of Intimate Partner Violence, Stigma, and Culture.

This study is being done to learn more about how cultural influences impact survivors' experiences with overcoming the stigma surrounding intimate partner violence. This is a follow-up to our previous research, which was the basis for the See the Triumph campaign. To learn more about See the Triumph and our previous research, please visit www.seethetriumph.org.

We are seeking participants who:

- Are at least 21 years of age
- Were formerly abused (including physical, sexual, and/or emotional/psychological abuse) by an intimate relationship partner (e.g., a boyfriend/girlfriend, life partner, spouse)
 - Have been out of any abusive relationship for at least two years
- Are first- or second-generation immigrants to the United States (i.e., you or your parents were born outside the United States or U.S. territories), and
 - Are able to complete a survey in the English language

Participants will be asked to complete a 20 minute on-line survey about their experiences related to stigma and relationship abuse. Participants will be entered into a drawing for one of two $50 store cards upon completion of the survey.

To participate in this study, please click the link below:

https://uncg.qualtrics.com/SE/?SID=SV_6W1YYRih0CYrZLD

This study has been approved by the Institutional Review Boards at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro in Greensboro, North Carolina and East Carolina University in Greenville, North Carolina.

If you have any questions or are interested in participating in this study, please contact Dr. Christine E. Murray, at 336-334-3426 or cemurray@uncg.edu or Dr. Allison Crowe at crowea@ecu.edu.