

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Are you interested in social justice and women's issues? Do you believe that all people have the right to safe, healthy, nonviolent intimate relationships? Do you believe that domestic violence and the stigma surrounding it need to end? If so, we invite you to consider a volunteer position with the See the Triumph Campaign.

See the Triumph is a research-based social media campaign that aims to:

- Share empowering messages that people can overcome their abuse and create positive, nonviolent lives
- Describe strategies that have worked for other survivors to help them overcome their abuse and the stigma related to it
- Promote a new view of battering survivors that shows them as triumphant, courageous, and resourceful

You can learn more about the See the Triumph campaign through our various social media channels:

- Web-site/blog: www.seethetriumph.org
- Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/seethetriumph>
- Twitter: <https://twitter.com/SeetheTriumph>
- Causes: <http://www.causes.com/causes/811248-triumphing-over-intimate-partner-violence>
- Instagram: <http://instagram.com/seethetriumph>
- Pinterest: <http://pinterest.com/seethetriumph/>

Currently, we are seeking volunteers to help us continue to grow and expand. The volunteer positions currently available include the following:

- Guest bloggers: To write blog entries with educational information about intimate partner violence
- Instagram manager: To manage the content and communications through Instagram
- Media developers: To develop interactive media (e.g., videos) and graphics that can be used across our various social media channels

All of these positions would primarily involve working independently, with a flexible schedule, with mentoring and support provided by the See the Triumph co-founders, Drs. Christine Murray and Allison Crowe.

If you are interested in learning more, please contact Christine Murray at cemurray@uncg.edu or Allison Crowe at crowea@ecu.edu.